Obedience

Let's face it, not all kids are cut out for science. The good news is that we are projecting a huge demand for private security in the not-so-distant future. Our Lil' CorpSEcorps Scouts will train them for an exciting new career in the compliance arts.

A word from our CEO

"It is our understanding that many of you may be concerned about some of our clandestine global operations. Rest assured, the well being of our planet and all of its inhabitants is our number one priority. Since we believe in transparency, we would like to share the details of some of our current goals and endeavors."

Product safety

It has come to our attention that the consumption of some of our products may have some potential health risks associated with them up to and including death. This makes us sad, even when it happens in the pleeblands.

We are dedicated to reducing the number of deaths attributed to our chicken-based and other food-like products. We are committed to a 70% reduction by 2150.

People safety

We are also prepared to announce a 70% reduction in severe burns caused by the unintended flammability of our tap water enhancements.

■ Safe People (70%) ■ Burnt People (30%)

*Fewer deaths. Less fire.
You're welcome.*

Sustainability

Biology

Due to the superior genetic makeup of the pigeon, which yield more bacon and have the ability to grow human organs, we regretfully announce the extinction of pigs. Noting personal, they just don't do anything for us.

Ecology

Ecological sustainability is important, we hear, so we are prepared to add one new species for every extinction attributed to our forest relocation program. We're sure whatever these things are will be friendly. We think.

Did you know?

None of our newly developed species can speak. If they do speak, we encourage you to ignore them.

*New species.
New flavors.*
